

Lokanadham Nagahari Krishna leads the Communications, Marketing and Industry Affairs function at Danfoss India. With a leadership focus on Business Development and Knowledge positioning, he is one of the key members to support the company's continued growth in the country.

Krishna is a Mechanical engineer with Marine and Controls specialization and an alumnus of IIM Calcutta. He has served in several leadership positions in renowned organizations such as ABB, as a Project Manager, Yes Bank, as a Senior Vice President – Strategic Initiatives, Government and Advisory and is currently Director at Danfoss, a leading manufacturing organization, with the parent company headquartered in Denmark.

He is a member of the CII National Task Force on Cold Chain and plays an active role in the Energy Efficiency committees of various industry and governance forums.

Prior to his corporate career, he has served in the Indian Navy as a Lieutenant Commander, where he held appointments both Onboard and Offshore during his 8 years of distinguished service. He was also an integral part of the team developing IPMS (Integrated Platform Management System) for ship propulsion - designed and implemented for the first time in Indian Navy.

He works closely with Central and State Governments on policy advocacy, project advisory, Governance reform, Public Private Partnership (PPP), Climate Change, Energy Efficiency and Cold Chain sectors, with an aim of engineering a sustainable tomorrow for India.